Sarju flows through Kapkot, Bageshwar, Sheraghat in a south – easterly direction to join with Ramganga river, flowing on its eastern boundary, at Rameshwar (456 m msl) and flows with the name of Sarju in a south-easterly direction to join Mahakali River downstream of Ghat. The total length of the Sarju river from its origin upto its confluence with Ramganga at Rameshwar is 112.69 Km.

It is bounded on the eastern side by mountain ranges namely Malla dhar (3452 m), Man dhar (3268 m) Korangyan dhar (3281 m), Landhwa dhar. On the western side, the Bajuling dhar (3463 m) separates its basin from that of the Pindar River.

From the west side, streams emerging from Bajuling Dhar (3463 m) and Dhakuri dhar join Sarju upstream of the project site.

The length of the river from its origin upto the proposed diversion dam site along its traverse is 54.73 Kms. During this traverse the river descends from an elevation of 3440 m to 780 m msl at the diversion dam site.

Further, the river flow is augmented by the springs and drainage from the subterranean aquifers in the mountain ranges along the river course.
